Biographical / Historical

Dr. Marya Annette McQuirter is a scholar in African American history and a local public history figure in Washington, D.C. McQuirter currently serves as a historian at the National Museum of African American History and Culture. As a historian for the Visual Arts department, she researches and writes content for the analog and digital platforms for the Visual Arts inaugural exhibition. She works with curators to amplify the life and work of artists and to illuminate the connections to the museum's other inaugural exhibitions. McQuirter's publications include a volume in the Young Oxford History of African Americans series. In addition to her publications, McQuirter curated an exhibit at the Martin Luther King, Jr. Memorial Library and for the "America I Am: African American Imprint" traveling exhibit with Tavis Smiley. McQuirter taught African American and American studies courses at George Mason

University and American University. McQuirter received her PhD in history from the University of Michigan in 2000.
