Biographical / Historical

The D.C. Public Library was founded in 1896 by an act of Congress "to furnish books and other printed matter and information service convenient to the homes and offices of all residents of the District."

^ Return to Table of Contents

Scope and Contents

Between 1972 and 1992 the Library conducted 29 oral history interviews with individuals who had a long association with and knowledge of Washington D.C. Topics include childhood experiences, segregation, religion, neighborhoods, education, communities, employment, demographics and social life. The interviews were organized and conducted by Marcia M. Greenlee and Roxanna Deane.

Revision Description

Finding aid revised to be more evergreen. 2020-07-15

Custodial History

D.C. Public Library conducted these oral histories between 1972 and 1992. Deposit into the Library's collection occurred at the time the interview was conducted.

Processing Information

In 1982, the Washingtoniana Division established the Oral History Research Center (OHRC). The Center was funded in part by the D.C. Humanities Council. Since then, the Library has conducted its own oral histories as well as acquired tapes recordings and transcripts from individuals or groups who conducted their own oral histories to OHRC to enhance public access. The collection was arranged by date of interview shortly after its conclusion. All files were foldered and placed in a filing cabinet. Tapes were duplicated by the Library with the original being placed into off site deep storage, and patrons given access to the use copy. Transcripts from two interviews in this collection, those of G.R.F. Key and Nora Drew Gregory, have been bound and cataloged with the Washingtoniana book collection. All known tapes and transcripts for this collection were digitized in 2014. There are no tapes for interview 03-59 and no transcript for interview 03-54. In 2017 the collection was reprocessed with all materials being placed in new folders and boxed. administrative materials were moved to the control file. Master tapes and use copies were placed in interview order and boxed.

Conditions Governing Use

D.C. Public Library holds copyright for all items in the collection with a signed release. Reproduction of oral histories without a release is not permitted
